Comments: The welfare standards of the animals at Goblin's Creek are very good. The bird enclosures are tidy and so are the camps. The feed rooms are clean and well maintained. There is a lot of people who wants to help animals but only do them more harm, but with Brett the owner of Goblin's Creek it's different. The knowledge he has of a wild animals and how to care for them, the way he prepares their food and how he treats them not as pets but as wild animals. From my welfare point of view the animals are very well looked after.
