General Report Comments: There are 1 African grey parrot around 20 years old and 1 ringneck 15 years old. The 2 birds are kept in the same cage. The owner claims that she puts the birds outside during the day and when she gets home she puts them inside the house. She said that when it is too hot she keeps them inside the house. There is water and food available for the birds. The cage is clean. The ringnecks features are plugged. She said that she has a problem with cats and she claims that it can be that the birds are stressed because of the cats. She said she would get some ointment for the bird and I will recheck again on there condition. The owner is 81 years old and claims she did breed with ringnecks years ago. I will also send her program's of what tipe of food she must give the birds.
