General Report Comments: Upon arrival, I met with the wife. It is really difficult to communicate with her, and I had to use google translate as she is from Ethiopia and speaks Amharic and very little English. They thought the SPCA is going to give them a kennel. I explained that they must either fully fix, as I see the roof section of the makeshift kennel has been fixed, or buy a new kennel. She understood and said she will explain to her husband, and apologized for the misunderstanding.

I will come by next week to see what they have done.

The dog currently has access to various parts on the property which provides adequate protection. As there are plenty low hanging trees which creates a canopy, there is also the back porch which is under roof as well as the front porch and the dog's makeshift kennel. However, I think if the dog has an actual kennel it will be better, and he can make it his own, and the owners seem to care for their dog and will be willing to provide him with one.
