General Report Comments: Nico Cloete who is the manager gave me access to the farm Voorspoed where the calves are kept and the farm Adamsfontein where the milking parlor is. The new born calves are kept in enclosures for the first 60 days and then after that they go into bigger camps. The enclosures do have roofs and was clean on my inspection,so the calves is not standing in direct sunlight like the complainant said. Water and food is also available and the living area is clean . We then went to Adamsfontein where the milking parlor is. Cattle is well taken care off and no injured animals was observed . Attached is a checklist that I have completed. Will do a recheck.
