Comments:	We met Mr Mokoka upon arrival at the property , who invited us in the yard. The occasion for slaughtering the sheep was a funeral proceedings. The sheep had not arrived when we got to the property but were told it was still on the way. When the sheep arrived it was loaded in a wheelbarrow to a slaughtering pit. We were allowed to prestun the sheep as soon as it arrived . They did not have knives of a proper size for slaughtering and we had to borrow them our own knives. Without any delay, the sheep was prestunned and slaughtered with minimum handling to avoid any further ongoing stress. The sheep was allowed to bleed at least 10 minutes before the dressing could take place and we left when dressing being done.
