General Report Comments: Arrived at the gate and hooted until the gate was eventually opened by a lady who peeked through the window. The lady's name was Sara who said that her husband is the one who is responsible for the care of the chickens in question. I went to the chicken coop to inspect the living condition of the chickens. The chickens were confined in a chicken coop with dirty water and the coop did not appear to be clean dirty with chicken poo. There were 5 hens with 1 cock. They appeared to be in acceptable physical condition. Sara said she did not want anything to do with the chickens and I should maybe come back later to speak with her husband. I issued her with written warning to give to her husband. To follow up
