General Report Comments: When I arrived at the site I met a gentleman who was not willing to identify himself. There were about 10 hens of chickens and a duck being sold in cages. Water was a bit dirty and while I was doing the inspection, it started raining and the cages were not protected from the rain. The seller walked away while we were busy talking in the rain telling me you take the chickens. The chickens were exposed to the rain and I went to the cage to try and move it from the rain and the seller came back for his defense. I told him that he was not supposed to leave the chickens in such a weather and he should keep them covered or moved from the rain. He told me that he usually brings a covering sheet with him but forgot it because he was not aware that it was going to rain. I wrote him a written warning to inform him that he may never let this happen again in future. Routine inspection to be conducted.
