General Report Comments: Dr Anthony Samuel returned home shortly after our arrival at the house . We still found the dogs in the confines of the carport with stilted cages that had goods stored in them. The 4-legged stilts that the cages were standing on allows more room for space on their base. There was a water bucket with potable water and bowls for feeding in the enclosure but there was no bedding this time. I asked Dr Samuel about the bedding and he said the helper was still having them washed. He immediately freed the young dog while the bigger one remained because of his aggressive temper from the enclosure. He claimed the reason for confining the dogs was because there was a gardener working on the property leaving the gates open for and this was a risk of escape. He claims to release the dogs at night to be on guard to deter criminal activities on the property. There were pawprints on the ground found in the yard to support this statement. No elements of animal cruelty in respect of animals found . Spot checks may be required when in the area to ensure compliance.
