General Report Comments: I met the owner's father upon arrival who called out his son (an adult) to tell him I was at the the gate. They finally opened the gate for me to investigate. I first asked to see the dogs including the dead ones. I discovered 2 dead bodies(carasses) of juvenile(6 months old) black Cross Labrador dogs, 1 live litter mate (to the late puppies) "Rex" and a 12-year-old, tan female Cross breed "Spicy". They were living in a filthy, untidy and unhygienic yard and was superficailly vulnerable to any form of contamination. No suitable adequate shelter provided. There was no potable water for the dogs. The owners strongly believed that their dogs were poisoned by their fellow tenants after making what they took as threatening remarks for their dogs from the tenants. I managed to convince the owner to surrender all the dogs to the SPCA due to the possiblity of contamination either through an alleged poison or the suspected contagious disease of Canine Parvovirus(CPV) to also avoid further infections. THE owner was discouraged to have any new puppies/dogs for a whole year. I still assured the owner that we will have the carcass tested for CPV and they must not just into any conclusions accusing anyone of harming their dogs. Feedback will be given to the owner once tested.
