General Report Comments: The owner met me at her house, where she invited me to see inside. She had two individuals assisting with cleaning around the house. She had 3 dogs and still had 7 adult cats that she was keeping at her house, while others were presumably scattered to other neighbours' houses because the people working in the house where it is the cats' own space. While cleaning was still a work in progress, the house was still being decluttered of invaluable items and objects; they still had a lot to go through to ensure household hygiene was maintained. 3 more rooms where her cats had access were still not cleaned and sorted. Mrs Rossouw pleaded for an extended period to sort out her house during my discussion with her. She was still adamant not to surrender her cats, and yet she hadn't made any permit application to keep the cats in excess of the prescribed amount. She said she is even considering building a secure enclosure of her whole yard, covering the top of her fencing wall. I told her to reconsider this decision, as we can't keep coming to her house every season, especially when a complaint is reported about her. I told her that I'll be submitting my findings to my managers to give guidance on a way forward now that my warning hasn't been fully complied with even when the owner's deadline expired. To submit my findings and discuss it with my manager
