General Report Comments: The dogs were free roaming in the front yard upon arrival. All four dogs are slightly thin but not severely. The dogs are fed a diet of Bow Wow pellets and pap. I advised Mr Douglas about better nutrition options to try improve the dogs' body conditions. Shelter and water was available for the dogs and the yard was neat and tidy. The white and brown female Jack Russel x female appeared to have a raw patch of inflamed skin on her snout. Mr Douglas informed me that she has had this hot spot for a while and nothing works to take it away. I advised the dog would need to go to the vet for a diagnoses and treatment, as worse case scenario it could be cancer. Before concluding the inspection we spoke about sterilisation of the male dog to prevent the male dog from mating with the mother and sister dogs.
