General Report Comments: I arrived at the property with Brie. They have a open yard that is quite open on the bottom.

I thought they did not have animals when they informed me they have a large wirehaired female dog inside the house. I went inside the house where the food and water bowls were ready. I realized the dog is very skittish and does not like new people.

The daughter held Brie and Yorkie smelled her. She then put Brie down and Yorkie smelled her some more. Out of the blue, Yorkie just charged at Brie for no reason. We let them calm down and tried again but the same thing happened. Then Yorkie had a dead stare on Brie and I and I told them unfortunately this is a fail.

I suggested that they rather try male dogs and bring their dog for a meet and greet before choosing another animal.

They agreed.
