To whom it may concern,

Re: Geoff, City of Cape Town, 5 year old, neutered English Pointer

Geoff has a recurrent dermal mass on the ventral sternum. It has been removed surgically once but has returned. I do not think it is malignant but it has not been examined at the laboratory. In my opinion, it is more likely due to trauma from the way he lies on the hard floor of his kennel. He can still work as per normal. I advise that he wears a shirt while working as it is a bit unsightly for the public.

Sincerely,

Dr Liam Bebbington
