History

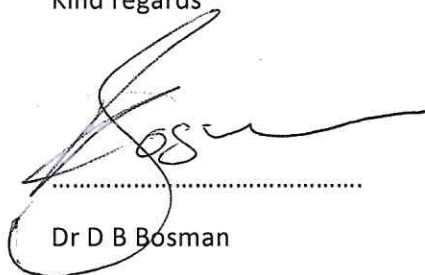

In June 2022 I tended to a severe back leg injury. The injury extended all along the caudal surface of the metatarsus, exposing the tendons and bone. A large part of the necrotic skin was removed and she was treated with bandages for a long period of time. The progress made was good and apart from some proud flesh the horse was sound when returned to owner.

On the 17th of January 2023 I was called out to the same horse by Zelda Erasmus. At presentation the horse had extensive proud flesh on the site where the wound was. I was of the opinion that the lesion might have progressed over a long time. I told owner that the horse cannot be treated by me but will have to undergo extensive treatment if she had the slightest chance to recover.

Considering the owners' financial limitations and the severity of the lesion my recommendation was for the horse to be put down.

If there are any other queries or concerns please feel free to contact me.
