Statement:

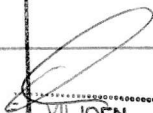

I came across the yorkies in question on the 8th of June. I spoke to Jeanette (the lady caring for them at this time) about some concerns I had for these dogs. I mention they were incredibly skinny and malnourished. The one dog had pooped and I saw that there were worms in the poop, which I brought to Jeanette's attention, where she mentioned that Yorkie was pregnant.

These dogs were incredibly dirty and matted, they were severely malnourished. (the one dog's spine and ribs were sticking out and couldn't stand without assistance), they were infected with worms, their nails were too long and they had been through months of neglect.

The one (maybe two) dogs that are pregnant had worms, and I believe they are being used for breeding but this person who owns them does not have a license for breeding.
