Apologies. Another mention is the space he is in. The inspector concerned that took him was not aware or made aware of the rest of the space on the property that Toby is on. He has full access to this space except during the day for a few hours when my dad is away because there are tools in the yard my Dad is scared he will get into. Also when the neighbour has people over it upsets him so to keep him from barking he puts him in that space but he definitely has full access to the entire property.

He also can enter the house when my Fathers is home and loves the cats. No issues or hindrance of where he is allowed.

Good day Inspector Philander

I just wanted to confirm as per conversation to you Friday 14 November and yesterday as well as to Tamryn-excuse if I have the name incorrect-I spoke with her Thursday 13 November, that I and my Dads son will be happy to oversee Tobys health and visits going forward.

He baths Toby every Sunday.

He is a good person and just made a mistake in not wanting to bother us by telling us he needed a lift to the vet while he had no car. Stupid of him I know but he is old and stubborn.

I promise I and my Dads son will take over the visits etc. Make sure he is at every visit going forward and that all meds are administered.

Please could I implore you to give my father another chance. My father is stupid and stubborn but he is no animal abuser.

He was stupid to miss the appointments but this will not happen again. Toby is like a son to him and he wont survive without him.

Please give him another chance. You can tell by Tobys reaction when you see him how much he loves him. He rescued him as a pup from animal abusers who used him to fight and has loved this boy ever since.

Looking forward to your avourable resounse.
