Comments: new compl received regarding cat hoarders:

Please inspect a property that has more than 30-40 cats, the living environment is dirty, the cats are fighting amongst each other, and are covered in wounds, and the owner gives the cats dog food that she throws on the floor. There has been an incident where the owners came to the compl and the cat was then covered in scabs all over the body. When the compl asked the owner was vague with her response, and the compl refused to hand the cat back because of the cat being in a very bad condition. The compl works for ART (animal rescue team). The owner initially had 5 cats, which were bred, and now she has so many cats she can't even look after them properly or feed them proper food. The cats are all neglected, and when they get injured, the owner refuses to have them treated, and the cats are not sterilised and keep having litter after litter, and they roam around everywhere. The compl wants us to remove the cats because they are all being severely neglected. No Evidence taken. The compl mentioned that the property smells and is horrendous, and some cats are even bleeding.
