Comments:	I spoke with Leandi this morning. She is not willing to provide an affidavit, explaining that the landlord is aggressive and has a bad temper. She does not want him or anyone else to know that she made the complaint. When I asked if she could provide photos of the tortoises, she said the landlord hides them in the backyard, and she is not able or willing to risk taking pictures in case he sees her. Regarding the injured tortoise with the cracked shell, I asked her to describe the severity. She explained that the crack is toward the top of the head and appears more like a small chip in the shell. I encouraged her to reconsider the affidavit, and she said she will confirm tomorrow. Her main concern, however, is about the permits. She wanted to know what action we plan to take. I assured her that Cape Nature and Law Enforcement will be notified, but she remains hesitant about us handing over all the information.
