Follow-Up Date:

Comments: It appears that the complaint was circulated among community members, and someone raised concerns after the SPCA had already visited the property and rectified the issues . The owner claims that he was previously instructed by the SPCA to place the kennels in their current position , and now feels harassed by being told to move them. He expressed that he believes he is being targeted as the only African owner among other ethnic groups .

I have pasted the owner's response below , and in my assessment, the case should be closed.

"hi Siviwe, i have no problem meeting with you. i am sure the SPCA keep their records and before you come, can you check what where the kennels where moved from to where they are on the recommendation of the SPCA. As for the water bowls, they were outside and i was recommended to put them inside, then the dogs would tip them and in winter they would be cold. they it was suggested that i should leave them outside, now you will probably come and say i should put them inside the kennel, unless if you suggest that the dogs should not have water.

i know you are doing your job and for fairness, should i also walk in my neighbor hood and identify others with similar setup as mine and i give you my complaints. If the SPCA's answer is a definate yes, that they will also put as much effort as they are doing with me . Happy to set a date to meet"
